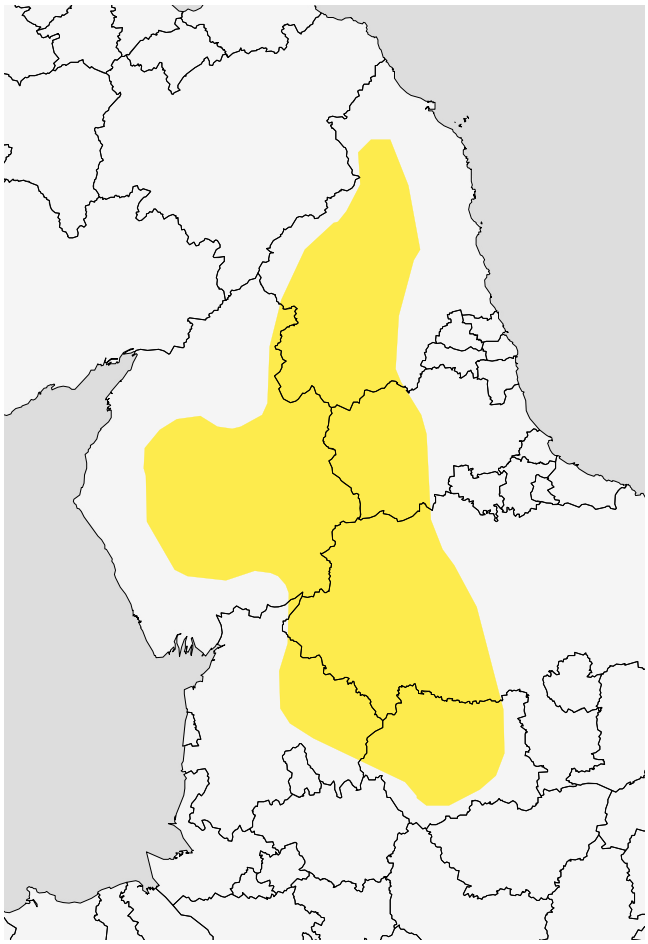
Yellow warning
Snow

Between
06:00 Thu 8 Feb 2024 and
06:00 Fri 9 Feb 2024



Further snowfall could bring some disruption on Thursday night and into Friday morning

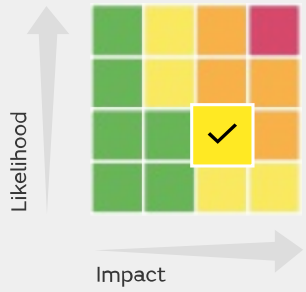
What to expect

- There is a chance of travel delays on roads with some stranded vehicles and passengers, along with delayed or cancelled rail and air travel
- There is a chance that some rural communities could become cut off
- There is a chance that power cuts will occur and other services, such as mobile phone coverage, may be affected

Further details

Further sleet and snow is likely, mainly above 200 m. Here, a further 5-10 cm snowfall is possible on Thursday night with 10-20 cm in a few places above 400 m. Snow is expected to turn to rain from the south on Friday morning.

What should I do?



Low likelihood of medium impacts

Snowy, wintry weather can cause delays and make driving conditions dangerous, so to keep yourself and others safe: plan your route, checking for delays and road closures, amending your travel plans if necessary; if driving, leave more time to prepare and check your car before setting off; make sure you have essentials packed in your car in the event of any delays (warm clothing, food, water, a blanket, a torch, ice scraper/de-icer, a warning triangle, high visibility vest and an in-car phone charger).

People cope better when they have prepared in advance for the risk of power cuts or being cut off from services and amenities due to the snow. It's easy to do; consider gathering torches and batteries, a mobile phone power pack and other essential items.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change quickly: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.

Reason for update

The warning area has been shrunk, and confined to higher ground of northern England. Little or no further snow at low levels is expected.
